

If you are trying to sell business-related mobile apps to a company that sells business planning software, how would you approach the situation?

The answer is in the next lecture.