

When John sends the update, please don't rush to email him right away.

Let's first brainstorm together to find better strategies moving forward and craft the reply together.

This is what we agreed on doing with manager Bob.

Does that work for you? And thank you for your understanding.