

I just got to work. I am happy that I wasn't late. Now I can make my boss happy. He will tell me that I am a good employee and give me a nice raise, which will help me buy more online classes. A raise will surely make my mother-in-law happy. One day I hope to be the best-paid employee at the company. It is such a great thing. I have been working hard, improving my focus, becoming more punctual, and doing better work overall. It is nice to dream about getting a raise, but I have to focus on doing a good job today and tomorrow. I am just a new employee here, so I have to prove myself.
